A red X is counterintuitive (usually red is convention for BAD)

In high contrast, the words are all black and not in a box outline.

Can only change contrast, and text size on instruction screen (hard to find).

Can't skip the starting tutorial (you can, but its offscreen).

It allows numbers (and non-applicable characters) for a write-in name...

It says "touch the letters", but it allows more characters.

If you click on write-in name, it deletes it for you (frustrating) if you do this by accident. It does remember the text though, but no indication.

It allows writing-in names already on ballot.

Information is too cramped on screen.

Entering a long person's name doesn't create a scrollbar, the new characters are written off screen.

The printed paper is too small (words don't fit on paper)
